

"I'm listening to Aaron English's 'God Bless You And Your Man' for the umpteenth consecutive time and it sounds really good to me. If Aaron was on a major label this is the exactly kind of song that would get top priority. I can't wait to hear more of his stuff!"

- JIM NELSON, A TASTE OF TRIPLE A

AARON ENGLISH

- film/tv placements in 2009:
mtv, vh1, bones, google, nomads (rush hdtv series), thrillbillies
- soul city café new music quest finalist
- coca-cola new music award finalist
- keyboard magazine unsigned artist of the month
- album of the year:
www.justplainfolks.org (also won "song of the year")
www.ryanssmashinglife.com (boston music blog)
- three u.s. tours & has shared the stage with:
buckwheat zydeco, dropkick murphys, kan'nal & many more...
- in australia:
licensed to emstream & playing on modern a/c radio stations nationwide

AARONENGLISH.COM
MYSPACE.COM/THEAARONENGLISHBAND

AS HEARD IN:

BONES

Google

FEVER DREAM

For the past 5 years, Seattle-based piano-man Aaron English has been steadily building a buzz in the U.S., thanks to two self-released albums and three national tours. But in 2008, English's 3rd national tour ended abruptly in a catastrophic accident on a Midwestern highway. His restaurant-grease-fueled tour bus and most of his musical equipment were destroyed - English's touring career was temporarily grounded. In the summer of 2009, his fans rallied to his aid and funded the recording of Aaron's third album, american [fever] dream. Produced by Geoff Stanfield (Sun Kil Moon, Black Lab) in a 150-year-old warehouse in Seattle during a record-breaking heat wave, the album is a document of English's phoenix-like journey back from tragedy...and a testament to the resiliency of the creative spirit. The release of the new album will be supported by national radio campaigns and touring in the spring and summer of 2010.

CONTACT.

Amanda Alexandrakis
& Tom Mazzetta
South Beach Marketing & Promotion

info@musicpromotion.com
[USA] 303.952.0249

